A BEAUTIFUL TOWN.

How Buckhannon Impresses the Stranger.
The Educational Facilities. Special Correspondence of the Intell

BUCKHANNON, Sept. 22.—Having now spent a week in this beautiful town I am prepared to say that no more than justice has been done in all that has been written concerning it as to beauty of location, natural advantages, educa-of location, natural advantages, educational facilities, future prospects, etc.

One of the very first things noticeable here at present is that all who wish to work find plenty of it to do, and no laboring man need be idle, as work on the streets, the building going on, and the improvement of the company's property are giving employment to all who want it, and there is work for many more if they could be had. When the work of paving the streets is completed no town of its size anywhere will have better streets, and Main street, with its broad sidewalks, will compare favorably with the finest streets in our large cities. Through the courtersy of Mr. Heavner I have been driven over the property of

I have been driven over the property of the Improvement Company, and I was forcibly struck with the extent of the contemplated improvements in the near future, and I was also surprised at the great improvements made since eight years ago when I was permitted to spend a few days here—just after the opening of the narrow gauge railroad. The place has more than doubled its

The place has more than doubled its population, the broad gauge read has taken the place of the narrow gauge, and it has pushed its way twenty-five niles beyond here to Newlon, and by midsummer of next year it will be at least ten miles beyond that point.

Buckhannon is 1,250 feet above the sca level, Newlon is nearly 500 feet higher, while the point referred to and which the road will soon reach is nearly 3,000 feet above tide water. So we have right at our door, as it were, summer resorts equal in every respect as far as the cool mountain breezes are concerned, to those famous resorts visited by many thousands every summer.

ed, to those lamous resorts visited by many thousands every summer.

I was first permitted to visit Buckhannon sixteen years ago, I spent two weeks here at that time. It was then a pleasant little village of not more than 600 inhabitants. Eight years ago I found it the same pleasant little place, leading to the lamb of the same pleasant little place, found it the same pleasant little place, having not much more than held its own as to population. Now, there is a population of nearly 2,000, and there is a "get up and get" about the people that seems to augur something much better in the near future than has yet been reached. The educational facilities are surely first class. The Conference Seminary is meeting with almost a phenomenal success, there now being 125 in attendance, which will be more than doubled during the year. The academy is doing well, and is a school of which any place might be proud; while the public school—well will not boast of it, but will say that it is as good as the best. By the way, it excels Wheeling schools in one respect at least, as there is connected with it a high school with a two year's course, in which is taught higher algebra, geo-high school with a two year's course, in which is taught higher algebra, geo-metry, astronomy, rhetoric and Latin. My impressions of the place thus far are very pleasant. Everybody seems anxious to make a stranger feel at home, and you are soon convinced that it is not expected that you long remain a stranger.

not expected that you arranger.

The sale and drawing of lots which takes place October 14, is looked forward to with a great deal of interest. There will doubtless be a large attendance, and the sale of lots will be correspondingly large.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Hints as to How a Woman May Take o Both.

A Frenchwoman, who is still a belle and beauty at seventy, thus advises her sisters: "On returning home after a ball jump into a really hot bath and reball jump into a really hot bath and re-main for half a minute in the water; immediately get into bed after being rubbed with a hot sheet or bath towel, and then drink a small cup of boullion and half a wine glass of Malaga. Do not rise before 10 o'clock the next morning, when ring either for a cold bath, or sponge all over with a large, cold sponge, which is even more invig-orating to the system. A cup of coffee and a piece of toast, without butter, to follow. orating to the system.

Two Mothers with Two Ways.

Two Mothers with Two Ways.

Two mothers, each with a young baby and no nurse, were discussing how they managed it. "I should be worn out," said one, "I'm sure, except for my rests. I make it a point as soon as my baby is sound asleep for his morning nap to drop everything and lie down myseli." "Oh," said the other, "while my baby takes his day nap is the only chance I have to gather up the loose ends about the house."

have to gather up the loose ends about the house."

In these two phases of management, says the New York Times, lies a wide and deep philosonly. Ten years from now it will be safe to predict that that second mother will have lines in her face and wrinkles on her brow that have no business to be there, and, equally, that mother No. 1 will still be fresh and blooming.

She Wondon't Treat the Men so Well.

Hetty Green is a philosopher as well as financier, says the New York World, and does not believe that wives and mothers were ketended to waste their lives over a cooking-stove, a dining-table or a dish-pan. A mug of milk and a battered roll, she thinks sufficient for any man's breakfast; and with an apple and bread and butter at noon no one can possibly starve or fall lil. At any rate, women should not let themselves be made kitchen slavos of. She Wouldn't Treat the Men so Well.

He walked in and put down a dollar, a silver dollar, that clanked like a carriage wheel in the stillness of the sanctum. Said he:

"There, take it and credit my subscription, quick."

"What's the matter?" we asked.

"Well," said he, "last week I was fishing out on Spring creek; a thunderstorm came up and it rained and thundered, and lightning flashed all around me. I crawled into a hollow log to escape it. The rain made the log swell up until I was fastened in and nearly squeezed to death. I began to think of all my sins and to repent. Suddenly I remembered that my subscription to the Globe was not settled up, and I felt so small about it that I was able to back right out of the log at once.

A Georgia editor says: "The longer we run a newspaper and write about people the more we realize how impossible it is to scrutch every man on the right spot." Perhaps the utterance of experience to the Georgia editor would run thus: Don't scratch any of your readers, but let each of them scratch for himself, while you publish the news of the world and expound its philosophy.

Chicago, Sepi. 21.— There was no evidence in any of the irading pits this morning, or, in fact, during most of the session, of the censil with which S. V. White went down yesterday.
